

I care deeply that this bill should have a chance to come up for a vote. As a small child I watched my kind, generous grandmother suffer with terminal leukemia. She would get very low and the doctors would do something and bring her back to suffer more. Twice this happened. The third time, my mother did not call the doctors and let her go. If "Meme" had had the assistance pill, she would have known that she could go when she felt it was right--- on her own. And my mother would not have felt she was breaking the law. Please give those who have a short time to live the chance to choose their time to go.
